

EL PASO LOST THE CAMP

Burt Orndorff Tells Tucson of Politics in Choosing Army Cantonments.

Tucson, Ariz., Sept. 12.—A new and hitherto unpublished version of how El Paso lost the cantonment was related here by Burt Orndorff, of El Paso, in an address before the Tucson luncheon club, at whose weekly luncheon he was present as a guest.

"Arizona and New Mexico did not get a cantonment," said Mr. Orndorff, "because it never was intended that they should get one. Deming's camp for southern guardsmen was the result of a political deal and the aid of a senator from New Mexico.

"When we went after a cantonment for El Paso we went to Gen. Greene with the committee from Las Cruces. Gen. Greene said that Gen. Paine, in command of this division, at San Antonio, would decide. We went to San Antonio.

"He said that neither Arizona nor New Mexico would get an encampment, because these states were too thinly populated.

"We went on to Washington and the secretary of war, whom we found to be a mighty polished and intelligent man, told us that Gen. Paine would decide. If he could not, Gen. Garlington, aid to the secretary of war, would decide.

"We suggested we would call upon Gen. Garlington, who was in his office near by. This did not seem to meet with the secretary of war's approval. He sent a messenger to Gen. Paine, telling him that he wished any more information on El Paso or if he did not wish to go along. Usually we got the reply we expected.

"Politics Was Day.

"However, through the wife of Gen. Orndorff, we got a letter from Gen. Garlington and he was very cordial. He said he was sorry we had not been to him a week earlier, because the secretary of war had decided upon the camp sites the previous Sunday.

"The campsite that went to Deming, Orndorff said, had been intended for El Paso, but had been diverted by the smooth work of the New Mexico politicians. El Paso had been turned down because of the high winds that blow there in a December.

"Good News for Miners.

"The glad news that the El Paso camp site in a few weeks will be in the market bidding for ore, was brought by Mr. Orndorff.

"The smaller shops at El Paso have been making a few dollars for six months that within a few weeks it will be able to double its capacity, he announced. It was brought by the manager of the plant that the smaller would be in the market for the ore of the south west.

Two Students at San Diego Trial Field Meet Death While Maneuvering.

San Diego, Calif., Sept. 12.—Edward M. Walsh, Jr., and Theodore B. Lyman, student aviators at the North Island military aviation school, were killed today when their planes collided about 500 feet above ground. Both were Californians.

Immediately following the accident, patrols were placed about the island by the military authorities and no person was allowed to approach. All information regarding the accident, including the names of the dead student aviators, was refused by the officers at the field until an investigation had been made.

According to the official announcement, the two students were flying in a formation of three planes. One of the planes, piloted by Walsh, was flying at a low altitude when it collided with the plane of Lyman. The collision occurred at the time of the accident. It was said that neither was able to land before striking the ground.

betrayed the provisional government. The government has taken measures to put Petrograd in a state of defense against attacks, and the hope is that the revolution will be successful. Evidence of the loyalty of the troops and people to the provisional government is being gathered from all the provinces, while all public organizations have announced their devotion to the provisional government by every possible means.

It is essential to the safety of the fatherland that complete unity of action be preserved. The government unites absolute calm and urges complete submission to the government and its representatives.

(Signed) "Korniloff."

The attitude of Gen. Korniloff, commander of the northern front, is still a matter of great concern. He refused to accept the post of commander in chief on the fact that the position was not a military one, but a political one. Asked by the government for an explanation of why he allowed the chief of command to be taken by Korniloff, he replied that these troops were not subordinate to him.

The government, vice premier Nekrasov said, had told Gen. Korniloff to either define his attitude or resign.

Gen. Lokomsky, the chief of staff, the vice premier added, undoubtedly was the chief commander. He had evidence the conspiracy had been prepared carefully, whereas the government would not admit it.

Dissemination in Korniloff Camp.

The government has received information that disseminals have been broken out in Gen. Korniloff's camp. The army sent against Petrograd, the vice premier declared, had been deceived, having been told that Gen. Korniloff's only aim was to drive the Bolshevik group out of the city.

The government has taken measures to disseminals the soldiers on this point.

M. Nekrasov concluded as regards the composition of the provisional government. He said that the government was composed of representatives of the public works and professor Kolesnikov, the state controller, were the only ministers who had definitely resigned.

The attitude of M. Olenburg, minister of education and science, and M. Karamzin, procurator of the Holy Synod was doubtful.

More Than 1000 Appeals on Industrial Grounds Made to the President.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 12.—More than 1000 claims for army exemptions on the ground that industrial work is indispensable to a war industry, appealed to the president, the final judge of such cases, were on file today at the office of provost marshal general Crowder and others are coming in.

Provisional examination is being made by Gen. Crowder on whose final recommendation the president probably will act. The general laid emphasis today on the fact that only industrial claims may be appealed to the president from district boards and that personal hearings before the authorities acting for the president will not be given. Evidence will be limited to that already presented to district boards and it will avail claimants nothing to employ attorneys or other agents to press their pleas.

Tending final decision by the president, the men claiming industrial exemption are subject to military duty, although in many cases district boards have granted temporary exemption or recommended to local boards that such men be included in the last quota sent to camp.

Ed Kayser Says Empire's Banks and Agents in Mexico Standing Pat.

Although the Teutonic allies are fighting for their very lives in the titanic world war, Germany is maintaining its banks and intelligence offices in Mexico with a view of securing the bulk of the export trade to that country at the close of the war, according to a statement made by Edgar W. Kayser, during an address on "Trade Extension in Mexico" which he delivered Wednesday at the noon luncheon of the El Paso Ad Club, at Hotel Edgemoor. Mr. Kayser said that if the United States did not take advantage of its opportunities and secure a footing in the export of products to Mexico it never will, and Germany will again become the dominating export country to the southern republic as it was before the war.

Takes Steps for Extension.

Trade extension in Mexico is being investigated by the United States government and by many of the larger manufacturing industries of the United States. The United States has taken steps for trade extension in Mexico and South American countries was at the beginning of the war.

The government has established a bureau in Mexico City for the purpose of securing information from American exporters to ascertain just what products will be needed by these countries after the war. There are today only a few small hands of outlaws operating in the states of Chihuahua and Coahuila. "Conditions will soon be such that we will be able to travel in safety with our families to Mexico City. And if we don't get trade in Mexico started now we will never get it. If Germany did not consider the business worth while then why does she maintain her offices? It is going to be a case of outguessing America."

Large American Bank Situation.

American banks don't take the trouble to go to Mexico to improve business in Mexico. The German banks, on the other hand, are studying the situation in Mexico and are making plans to take advantage of the situation. They are making plans to take advantage of the situation. Goodyear Manager Here; Roseland Is Drafted

For the second time in six weeks, Uncle Sam has claimed a manager from the local branch of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. Six weeks ago T. T. Fitzgerald resigned the management to accept a commission as first lieutenant in the supply company of the First Texas Infantry. He was accompanied by H. E. Roseland, who came from the Phoenix branch of the Phoenix branch.

A few days ago Mr. Roseland was called by the draft board to report at Fort Riley, Kan. C. W. Allen, who has been one of the Goodyear territory men in the Denver field for the past three years, arrived in El Paso Tuesday and is now in charge of the El Paso branch.

I am very much pleased with the transfer of Mr. Fitzgerald, said Mr. Allen. "I believe that this is one of the best pieces of news for the Goodyear in the entire country."

Charles P. Thomas, one of the insurance men here representing the government in conservation work, made a brief talk.

Underwriters Cooperating.

"Even though our train elevators and warehouses are filled with food stuff we may see a shortage before the end of the year," he said. "The underwriters are cooperating with the national league of defense in conservation work. This work has been done in many states and men behind the movement have received the support of the governors and prominent business men."

Statistics of the state fire marshal in Texas show that 72 percent of the fires in this state are preventable.
